BILATERAL TRADE & INVESTMENT

Jordan–U.S. Reciprocal Trade Agreement

New Opportunities for Bilateral Trade and Investment

The newly signed Reciprocal Trade Agreement between Jordan and the United States marks a "significant" step in strengthening bilateral economic ties beyond tariff adjustments, creating new opportunities for trade, investment and long-term business partnerships. The agreement builds on the Jordan-US Free Trade Agreement, which entered into force in 2001.

Under the newly signed agreement, the U.S will cut reciprocal tariffs on Jordanian goods to 10 percent and Jordanian apparel and textile products of all kinds will enter the U.S at zero customs duties.

AmCham-Jordan Chairman Samer Judeh in remarks to Petra News Agency, noted that the agreement builds on the two countries' "longstanding" economic partnership by expanding frameworks for trade and investment, creating new opportunities for Jordanian and US companies, and strengthening cooperation in services, digital trade, innovation and supply chains. He explained that the agreement "goes beyond" improving market access by giving the business community greater confidence to establish long-term commercial partnerships, explore new investment opportunities and expand operations in both markets. The pact, he stated, also spurs American companies to invest locally and partner with Jordanian businesses to expand into regional markets, as well as supporting Jordanian companies seeking to establish a commercial presence in the U.S.

It is important to note that the agreement is projected to streamline movement of goods between the two countries, supporting increased Jordanian exports to the US market, including apparel and garments, while easing access for American products, including agricultural goods and vehicles, to Jordan.

The agreement also features measures to facilitate bilateral trade by enforcing environmental laws, protecting labor rights, launching stronger intellectual property safeguards, fair trade practices, improving customs procedures, removing trade barriers and enhancing market access for US goods, including agricultural products and vehicles.

AGGREGATOR ACCELERATOR PROGRAM

Accelerating Growth for Jordan's Business Aggregators

The Aggregator Accelerator Program, implemented by AmCham-Jordan under the Informal Livelihoods Advancement Activity (Iqlaa) and funded by the United States Government, continues to strengthen Jordanian business aggregators and expand economic opportunities for micro and small enterprises (MSEs) and home-based businesses (HBBs).

The program brings together ten aggregators operating across diverse sectors, including design, handicrafts, cultural heritage, e-commerce, sports, agriculture, food production, jewelry, and home décor. The participating aggregators are FADAA, Kanabay, Smart Desert, Design Space, Jordan River Foundation (Mooneh), Carttoneh, Decoration One, E-Hub, Hope for Sports, and The Heritage Project.

Following the successful completion of comprehensive organizational assessments, each aggregator has developed a tailored Business Plan and Go-to-Market Roadmap, providing a clear strategy for sustainable growth and increased market competitiveness.

The program is now entering its implementation phase, during which aggregators will receive specialized technical assistance, targeted training, and one-on-one coaching to strengthen their operational and business capacities. This support will enable them to implement their growth strategies, expand into new markets, and create greater economic opportunities for the MSEs and HBBs within their networks.

Through this initiative, AmCham-Jordan and the Iqlaa Program continue to advance sustainable, aggregator-led business models that foster innovation, strengthen local value chains, and contribute to inclusive economic growth across Jordan.

The Aggregator Accelerator program:
Empowering Aggregators, Enabling MSEs

Aggregators play an important role in helping micro and small enterprises and home-based businesses reach wider markets. By bringing together products from multiple local producers, strengthening quality and market readiness, and connecting them with new buyers, aggregators create more structured and sustainable pathways for business growth.

We are proud to see 10 Jordanian aggregators take a major step forward, equipped with clear growth plans, stronger market strategies, and a renewed ability to create opportunities for the small and home-based businesses they support.

We look forward to our next phase where aggregators will be engaged in a specialized "Go-Global" training and one-on-one coaching on expanding market reach and creating greater opportunities for the MSEs and home-based businesses within their networks.

This project is implemented within the scope of the Informal Livelihoods Advancement Activity (Iqlaa), funded by the United States Government.
